

New Opportunities to Enjoy the North Maine Woods

-- Free --
Public Invited

Staff and volunteers of the Appalachian Mountain Club will present a slide-illustrated program on how AMC members and the public can enjoy AMC's 66,000 acres in the 100-mile wilderness region outside of Greenville, Maine, 90 minutes NW of Bangor. The program will cover AMC's long-range plans in northern Maine, their conservation and land management goals, and recreational opportunities such as the AMC wilderness lodges, campsites, shelters, and trails and waterways for hiking, canoeing, skiing, and snowshoeing. Learn about future canoe camping opportunities on the Roach Ponds and mountain biking trails on other nearby lands. Join us on Wednesday, June 6th in the upstairs Lecture Hall at the Bangor Public Library, 145 Harlow Street. The program starts at 6:30pm. FMI and driving directions check www.amcmaine.org under meetings and education or email Education Chair John Mullens at education@amcmaine.org. The talk is free and the public is cordially invited.

Wednesday, June 6, 6:30 pm
Bangor Public Library, Upstairs Lecture Hall, Bangor, 04401